Trapping in Right-of-Way Sent to Final Reading

Counties could adopt regulations having the force and effect of law to prohibit trapping in the county road right-of-way or certain sections of the right-of-way under amendments adopted to LB 5. The bill was advanced from Select File on Thursday. In counties that allow trapping, no traps larger than those currently approved for use on Game and Parks Commission land could be used in the right-of-way.

Senators spent more than two mornings this week debating the bill. Numerous amendments were debated, including proposals to require trappers or counties to post signs in areas where traps are located, to require trappers to request permission from the adjacent landowner, and to impose civil liability on trappers for injuries to people or domestic animals.

Supporters of the ban on trapping cited the danger to workers, children and pets who enter public rights-of-way without knowledge of possible traps. Opponents of the ban noted the need to control populations of burrowing rodents that destroy roads and ditches.

Snapshots of County Issues

• One-Stop motor vehicles: On Feb. 12, Governor Heineman signed LB 49, a bill consolidating motor vehicle functions in the office of the county treasurer. In nearly 50 counties, the treasurer already performs titling functions. The governor also signed LB 180, which would allow certain waste reduction and tire fees to be distributed as grants for reimbursement of costs to small cities and counties of fewer than 5,000 for the recovery and processing of recyclable materials in the deconstruction of abandoned buildings. The funds would also continue to be used for recycling grants, composting grants, and similar programs.

• Audiovisual court appearances: LB 90, which would remove the current requirement for written consent and waiver of a physical personal appearance when an audiovisual court appearance is made in nonevidentiary criminal proceedings, was advanced from General File. An amendment was adopted to eliminate waiver requirements if the prisoner and his or her counsel are in different locations but can communicate confidentially.

• Change township ballot language: The Government, Military and Veterans Affairs Committee sent LB 434 to the floor on Tuesday. The bill, which was introduced by Sen. Charlie Janssen at NACO's request, would clarify ballot language when the issue of changing from a township form of government to a commissioner form is presented to voters. Under existing law, the ballot question is posed as "For continuance of a township form of government" and "For discontinuance of a township form of government". The bill would change the ballot language to a more standard positive/negative format of "For discontinuance" and "Against changing".

The committee also advanced LB 348, a bill to make real estate transfer statements (Form 521's) available at register of deeds offices. Language requiring free copies of these documents for legal newspapers was stricken by a committee amendment.

• County attorney requirements: Candidates for the office of county attorney would have to be admitted to practice law in Nebraska under LB 55. The bill was advanced from Select File with an amendment eliminating similar requirements for the office of Attorney General.

• Clerks of the district court residency: On a voice vote, senators advanced residency requirements for clerks of the district court from second-round debate. LB 7 was introduced by Sen. John Wightman at NACO's request to harmonize these residency requirements with those of other county officials.
